

TE TIRITI-BASED MULTICULTURAL DAY

The last Friday in August every year is Tiriti-based Multicultural Day.

This is a day for bringing your culture with you to school, to work, to the library, on the bus, in the park, everywhere!

Everybody has an ethnicity, and everybody has their culture.

Because of the invitation extended through te Tiriti o Waitangi, Aotearoa New Zealand has an amazing mix of different cultures and ethnicities living alongside each other.

We think it is important for people to celebrate and share their cultures so we can all learn about each other and better understand what it means to be a part of such a vibrant and diverse multicultural society.
